2023

Resource Guide

for the Mature
Market in Rock
County

Do you want to move? Maybe downsize?
Or maybe a loved one needs to know where they can get in-home care or where they can go for a social meal?

You've come to the right place.

Helping Hands is here for you.

Senior Living

Jack and Imogene Ehle have found a new “family”. Between the two of them they have eight children, but their Riverside Terrace “family” is made up of fellow residents who help care for each other.

“I don’t say nice things about living here just to butter people up, I really believe this is a wonderful place,” quips Imogene.

The couple has lived here since 2013 and has met lots of nice people. The staff says Jack and Imogene keep the residents laughing with their quick senses of humor. They also love the helpful staff, dining together, and their opportunity to have a voice in what happens there.

“Moving here was our kid’s idea, but they made a good decision for us.”

What’s included in the monthly rate?

Assistance with daily care, meals, snacks, housekeeping, medication management, laundry, and activities.

Are you affordable?

When compared to other assisted living facilities in the southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois area we are considered one of the most affordable.

Competitively priced Assisted Living in both Beloit and Roscoe.

Get a CapTel Captioned Telephone at No-Cost to you!

CapTel
2400i

The CapTel® Captioned Telephone shows word-for-word captions of everything a caller says, letting you read anything you cannot hear over the phone. CapTel is a NO-COST, federally funded technology available under the Americans with Disabilities Act.

To qualify, users need:

- Hearing loss
- Internet connection
- Landline telephone service

Tips for Caregivers: Helping with Medications and Medical Devices

By the GWAAR Legal Services Team

Do you help care for a friend or family member in your home or check on them in their own home? Although you want to help your loved ones stay healthy, managing their medications can be a challenge. These tips can help you keep the people you care for safe.

Lock up medication. Make sure medicine is taken only by the person it is meant for. Keep medications and any dietary supplements out of the reach of children, teens, and other adults who might be harmed if they take it.

Keep a list of medicines for each person you care for. In addition to prescription medication, remember to include over-the-counter medication and dietary supplements, like vitamins and herbs. Keep this list with you and bring it to doctor visits. When you go to the doctor, ask: What is the name of the medicine? How much medicine should my loved one take and when should it be taken? Are there any side effects and special warnings? What can be done if my loved one has any problems taking or tolerating this medicine? How should we safely get rid of old or unused medicine?

Give the right amount of medicine. Ask your loved one's healthcare providers how much medicine you should give and when you should give it. Be sure to use the measuring cup or device that comes with the medicine.

Use home medical devices safely. Talk to a doctor or other healthcare provider about how to use medical devices correctly. Read the directions on how to clean the device, as household cleaners should not be used on some devices.

Finally, make a plan for emergencies. Pack a kit with medical supplies, batteries for any medical devices, and a copy of your loved one's medicine list. Put the kit in a place that is easy for your loved one to access. Ask a healthcare provider how to handle medicines or devices affected by flood water or heat. If there is an emergency in your loved one's home, tell the electric company or any first responders if there is a medical device that needs power.

POA's - How Much Power Do You Really Have?

By Azura Memory Care

When it comes time to move your loved one into a memory care home, a POA (or Power of Attorney) is appointed. For some, this can feel like you have all of the power over the decisions made for your loved one, and for some, they really just don't know what all comes with being a POA. The powers of an appointed person can be broad or narrow, depending on how the POA document is written.

There are many different kinds of POA's and it is important to understand YOUR role to be as supportive as possible. According to Aging Care, "A medical POA (also known as health care POA) gives a trustworthy friend or family member (the agent) the ability to make decisions about the care the principal receives if they are incapacitated. A financial POA gives an agent the ability to make financial decisions on behalf of the principal. It is common to appoint one person to act as an agent for both financial and healthcare decisions, but in some cases it may be wise to separate the two."

What a Healthcare POA CAN Decide:

- Which doctors and care providers that the loved one uses
- Where their loved one will live in terms of residential long-term care. However, the healthcare POA must be able to afford the living arrangements as well as the financial POA's approval.
- What kind of medical care that their loved one receives, including their surgery, psychiatric visits, hospital care, etc.
- What kind of diet the loved one has
- Who bathes and washes the loved one

What a Financial POA CAN Decide:

- File taxes on the loved one's behalf
- Collect the loved one's debt
- Access financial accounts to pay for expenses
- Manage the loved one's properties
- Apply for benefits (Medicaid, veteran's benefits)

What a POA CANNOT Do:

- Change anything in the loved one's will
- Break their duty to act in the loved one's best interest
- Make decisions for the loved one after their passing (POA is broken after death)
- Change the POA to someone else, only the loved one can do that

Keep in mind that if your loved one has the capacity to make their own decisions, then it is important that you recognize the fact that your loved one still has the final say. Most long-term care homes will honor the request of your loved one unless unfit. POA's are also fully revocable by your loved one. If they deem you incapable of doing the job, they can take it away.

Walking Does Your Body Good

Simple and powerful, scientifically proven by many studies: Sneaking in a few minutes a day of walking can transform your body, health, and mind. So get up and start moving!

HEART - Thirty to sixty minutes most days of the week can lower your risk of heart disease.

LONGEVITY - Seventy-five minutes a week of quick walking can add nearly two years to your life.

BONES - Four hours a week can reduce the risk of hip fractures by up to nearly 50 percent.

WEIGHT - One hour daily walks can cut your risk of obesity in half.

MEMORY - Forty minutes three times a week protects the brain region associated with memory and planning.

BRAIN - Just two hours of walking a week can reduce your risk of stroke by 30 percent.

MOOD - Thirty minutes a day can reduce symptoms of depression by almost 40 percent.

HEALTH - Walking 3,500 steps a day decreases your risk of diabetes by almost 30 percent.
